ABOUT ME

I love everything IT, Media and Web. That's why I study Media Production at college. I've also got a keen interest in criminology; understanding why people commit crime. That's why I volunteer actively with the Police. As my time as a student ends, I look forward to entering the media industry and furthering my skills in the workplace.

WHAT I DO:

Alongside my studies, I have built a freelance business identity - APE AV - where I provide IT support, live event engineer, web development and promotional video production services to individuals and SMEs. This has allowed me to consolidate my skills in a professional context.

As well as the technical skills, I have learnt basic business and marketing skills, such as: building a business identity, client base, invoicing and finance management.

WHAT I DO:

I write pieces for the YoungMinds Mental Health Charity 'Experiences' blog, and have previously authored articles for the ME Association, where I document and write about my experiences of being a teenager living with ME/CFS.

WHAT I DO:

I oversee the coordination of Hampshire Police's youth restorative justice programme, the Community Court, in Basingstoke and Winchester. This involves leading a team of 20 volunteers, liaising with police officers and staff and members of the public. In March 2020, I was named the Police Support Volunteer of the year for my efforts.

SUMMARY:

Studying at Farnborough College of Technology towards a Level 3 BTEC in Creative Media Production. Extra-curricular activities include being a student ambassador and student representative to the college and faculty management.

SUMMARY:

Gained 8 strong GCSEs from Robert May's School. As a student, I lead a team of 56 Prefects as Head Boy and pioneered digital solutions for improving teaching and learning through leading a Digital Ambassador team.
